

SEE ALUMNI

NEWSLETTER

Master's Degree

University of Athens

June 2009

TEN YEARS!!!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO THE SEE PROGRAMME

The Postgraduate Programme in Southeast European Studies is celebrating! At the end of this academic year (2008-9), we complete our first decade.

The past ten years have seen Southeastern Europe's transformation from a European war zone to a region well on its way to integration during the European Union. Our multinational multi-disciplinary Programme, born during the Kosovo crisis, has been part of that transition.

Created in 1999 as part of the Royaumont Process, in its first years the Programme was supported by the Stability Pact. In addition to its academic aims, our programme was founded with the explicit goal of promoting understanding and reconciliation in Southeast Europe. It offers a unique opportunity for students from all over the region (and not only) to spend an academic year in Athens, learning about the region with and from each other.

During the Programme's first 10 years, a total of 295 students from 28 countries have participated in the Programme! (For details of our students, see p. 2 and for news of our alumni, see p. 6).

Happy Birthday to us – we are all looking forward to the next 10 years.

NEWSLETTER TABLE OF CONTENTS

- ❖ Our students 2
- ❖ Programme news 3
- ❖ Faculty news 5
- ❖ Where are you now? 6
- ❖ Programme Administration 2008-9 11

OUR STUDENTS

From 1999 to 2008 a total of 295 students from 28 countries participated in the Programme. From Southeastern Europe we had 18 students from Albania, 7 from Bosnia and Herzegovina, 22 from Bulgaria, 4 from Croatia, 21 from the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, 18 from the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia/Serbia and Montenegro, 23 from Romania, 8 from Slovenia, 4 from Hungary, 25 from Turkey and 115 from Greece.

We also had students from Germany, Italy, the United Kingdom, Norway, Finland, Poland, Lithuania, Slovakia, the Czech Republic, Armenia, Moldova, Ukraine, Jordan, Iraq, and Cyprus as well as from the distant USA and Japan!

Some of our staff and students at the 2008-2009 farewell party.

NEXT YEAR'S STUDENTS

The student selection for 2009-10 was announced in May 2009. Our new student group includes 3 students from Albania, 1 from Bosnia and Herzegovina, 2 from Serbia, 3 from Turkey, 2 from Cyprus, 9 from Greece and 5 from the USA.

We are looking forward to meeting them in September!

PROGRAMME NEWS

NEW COURSES

In 2007-8 we updated the Programme of Studies and added new courses. As ever, the Programme remains committed to integrating academic staff from other universities in order to guarantee the multidisciplinary character of the Programme.

Here is the Programme of Studies as taught in 2008-9:

Winter semester

➤ Nationalism in Southeastern Europe

Professor Pandelis Lekkas, Professor Thanos Veremis, Dr Ekavi Athanassopoulou (all at University of Athens) and Dr Dia Anagnostou (University of Macedonia).

➤ Politics and History of Southeastern Europe in the Twentieth Century

Dr. Dia Anagnostou (University of Macedonia).

➤ European Integration and Southeastern Europe

Dr. Susannah Verney (University of Athens).

Spring semester

➤ Southeast European Politics and Society in the New Democratic Setting

Professor Christos Lyrintzis & Associate Professor Dimitri A. Sotiropoulos (both at University of Athens).

➤ The Political Economy of Transition: The Case of Southeastern Europe

Dr George Stubos, Research Department, Bank of Greece.

➤ Conflict Resolution & Regional Cooperation in Southeastern Europe

Professor Alexis Heraklidis (Panteion University) and Dr. Ekavi Athanassopoulou (Lecturer, University of Athens).

GUEST LECTURES

Guest lectures continue to be an important part of our Programme. During the Spring semester, we had the following talks:

- Professor Ahmet Evin, Sabancı University, Istanbul, "Turkey's Foreign Policy: New Approaches to the Neighbourhood", 9 February 2009

Professor Ahmet Evin was Founding Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at Sabancı University in Istanbul. He previously taught at New York University, Harvard University, Hacettepe University (Ankara), the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Hamburg, and Bilkent University (Ankara). In collaboration with the European University Institute in Florence, he established the EU-Turkey Observatory. He was formerly director of education for the Aga Khan Trust for Culture, a Geneva-based international development organization and also has experience in private sector corporate management. He has written or edited ten books.

- Dr Jens Bastian, formerly at the European Agency for Reconstruction, "On the Road to Europe: Economic and institutional integration of the Western Balkans", 13 March 2009.

Jens Bastian worked for the European Agency for Reconstruction in Thessaloniki from July 2005 until the Agency's closure in December 2008. His role was to contribute through economic research and political analysis to the coordination and management of the Agency's programmes for economic development and institution-building in Southeastern Europe. Previously, he was employed as an Investment Consultant for Southeastern Europe for Alpha Bank in Athens (1998-2005). Before coming to Greece, he taught the political economy of transition in Central and Eastern Europe as a Lecturer at the London School of Economics. He holds a PhD in Social and Political Science from the European University Institute in Florence.

- Dr. David Landsman, OBE, the British Ambassador to Greece, "British Ambassador to Greece on "Europe in the Balkans, or the Balkans in Europe? Some British Reflections", 3 April 2009.

Dr David Landsman has served in the British Foreign and Commonwealth Office since 1990. His previous postings include Athens 1991-1994, where he was Second Secretary with responsibility for Economic and EU affairs; Belgrade where he served twice, first as Deputy Head of Mission 1997-1999 and again as Charge d' Affaires 2000-2001; Banja Luka where he was Head of the British Embassy Office in Republika Srpska 1999-2000, while concurrently serving as First Secretary (Regional Affairs) in Bucharest; and Tirana, where he served as British Ambassador, 2001-2003. In 2008 he served as Balkans Director of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in London. He was appointed British Ambassador to Greece in January 2009.

We invited all our Programme alumni to participate in Dr Landsman's lecture and we were pleased to meet some of you there. We look forward to inviting you to other Programme events in the next academic year.

Turkish Cypriot, Serbian and Greek dialogue continues the discussion after a Guest lecture.

New Faculty: Welcome to Associate Professor Pantelis Lekkas, who joined the Programme (and the Department of Political Science) in Autumn 2008. Professor Lekkas is co-teaching the course on “Nationalism in Southeastern Europe”.

Welcome Back to Professor Alexis Heraclides from Panteion University, who rejoined the Programme in 2008-9 to teach the course on “Conflict Resolution & Regional Cooperation in Southeastern Europe” in collaboration with Dr Ekavi Athanassopoulou.

We say goodbye to Konstantina Botsiou, who taught the course “Southeast European History and Culture” from 2000-2001 till 2006-2007 and was a member of the Programme Coordinating Committee in 2006-7. Dr Botsiou left the Programme and the Department of Political Science in September 2008 after being elected Associate Professor at the University of the Peloponnese.

Visiting Fellowships: Associate Professor Kostas Ifantis, Programme Coordinator 2001-2006, is spending his sabbatical leave from March to July 2009 as a Visiting Research Fellow at the London School of Economics.

Dr Dia Anagnostou is Fernand Braudel Senior Fellow at the European University Institute in Florence during the Spring Semester 2009.

Faculty Elections: Dimitri A. Sotiropoulos Assistant Professor of Political Science specialising in the Politics of Eastern and South-eastern Europe was elected Associate Professor in September 2008. Susannah Verney, Lecturer in International and European Studies, was elected Assistant Professor of European Integration in January 2009.

SOME RECENT PUBLICATIONS BY OUR FACULTY

- Athanassopoulou, Ekavi (ed.), United in Diversity? European Integration and Political Cultures, London and New York: I.B. Tauris, 2008.
- Anagnostou, Dia & Psychogiopoulou Evangelia (eds.), The European Court of Human Rights and the Rights of Marginalised Individuals and Minorities in National Context, Leiden Brill Publishers, 2009 (in press).
- Anagnostou, Dia, and Ruby Gropas, “Domesticating Islam and Muslim immigrants: Political and Church Responses to Constructing a Central Mosque in Athens” in Victor Roudometof and V. Macrides (eds.), Orthodox Christianity in 21st Century Greece: The Role of Religion in Politics, Ethnicity and Culture, Aldershot: Ashgate Publishing, 2009
- Sotiropoulos D. A., “The Greek Welfare State: Structural Characteristics, Europeanization, and the Lack of Substantive Reform”, in Monica Carlos, ed., The Challenge of Social Policy Reform in the 21st Century, I. Sideris Publishers, Athens 2008, pp.59-82
- Sotiropoulos D. A., Nezi S. and Toka P., “What Kind of Europe Do Greek Parliamentarians Want?” Greek Review of Political Science, no. 32, December 2008, pp. 25-41 (in Greek).
- Verney S. & Ifantis K. (eds.) Turkey's Road to European Union Membership: National Identity and Political Change, Routledge, 2008.
- Verney, S. “From Consensus to Conflict: Changing Perceptions of the Cyprus Question in the European Parliament, 1995-2006” in T. Diez and N. Tocci (eds.) Cyprus: A Conflict at the Crossroads (Manchester University Press, 2009), pp. 124-146

WHERE ARE YOU NOW?

News of our ALUMNI

Let's find out what many of you have been doing since graduation.

The rest of you, please send your news to u-see@interel.uoa.gr

Send us a small photo too

ALUMNI 2000-2001

Lala Svetlana Stankovic: Participating in the SEE Programme helped me to be accepted in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Serbia in 2002. Since then I have been working as a diplomat and I am currently first secretary for political issues in the Serbian Embassy in Vienna in Austria.

ALUMNI 2001-2002

Iskra Stojanovska Ivanovska: After attending the SEE Programme, I went back to my own country and started working on different short-term EU projects. Since 2002/03 I have been working in the Central Bank of the Republic of Macedonia, where I am currently Senior Supervisor in the On-site Supervision Department. I also completed another Master's programme in European Studies at the Faculty of Economics at St. Cyril and Methodius University in Skopje. I am currently studying for a PhD in the Law Faculty of St. Cyril and Methodius University on the topic of "Legal risk management in the banking sector".

ALUMNI 2002-2003

Jelena Stajik: After graduating from the Programme, I worked for three years as an adviser to the Serbian Government on its EU application. Now I am a Faculty assistant and finishing my doctoral dissertation in Belgrade.

Sonia Starova-Nikolopoulou: While I was studying on the SEE Programme, I worked part time for a PR company (ANTENNA Communication Consultants, located in Glyfada). I now work for the same company full time and have been promoted to Account Supervisor. The projects I have undertaken include programmes for the European Commission, such as the "For Diversity. Against Discrimination" campaign (3/5/2007) in cooperation with the Greek Ministry of Labour and NGOs and also a DG Enlargement Road Show, where I was in charge of organising two seminars, in Athens and Thessaloniki, entitled "Bulgaria-Romania: New member states of the EU. New perspectives for Greek enterprises". We also work on projects for national clients, such as "Media Tool", an evaluation and reporting of car industry companies' public relations actions in the Greek media.

ALUMNI 2003-2004

Ovidiu Palcu: I am currently a third year PhD candidate in the Faculty of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of Athens. After graduating from the Master's Programme, I have also worked in several jobs, including as a journalist for Premium SA (Greek news agency, www.reporter.gr), writing and preparing economic, stock exchange and business news from the Balkans and making translations from Romanian to English. Until recently, I also presented live a Romanian language radio magazine and news on Athens International Radio 104.4 FM, www.athina983.gr and Athens Community Voice www.communityvoice.gr. I am now working as a Junior Project Manager for a consultancy company, MENTORING SA in Athens. At the weekends, I work as a consultant for a new organization, the Hellenic Immigrants Union (www.migrationpolicy.gr), which is trying to unite different immigrants' associations under the same umbrella. I also work on a voluntary basis as Director for a cultural NGO, "Contemporary Balkania", which aims to promote Balkan culture to the Greek public. And I love to travel often (48 countries to date)!!!

Anastasia Petraki: Until I graduated from the SEE Programme in September 2004, I worked in the Administrative Court of Athens as a court official. Then I quit and since then, have been working as a secondary school teacher of Sociology. During the academic year 2004-2005, I taught in Messenia and with a group of students from Filiatra high school, I participated in the "Spring of Europe" contest on the European Constitution. My commitment to the ideas of the European Union was transferred to my students who won the first prize! I accompanied the group of 10 students to Strasbourg, where we participated in the European Parliament's celebrations of the European Union. Three of my students took the floor and expressed their views on various topics. This was a great experience for me and for the students. From July 2005 to September 2007 I worked in DOATAP, a Greek government agency that some of the Programme students will know well as it is responsible for recognition of foreign degrees, where I am now

Head of the University Section. I was also involved in the Leonardo exchange programme and participated in a seminar in Rome on education issues. From September 2007 I have been on sabbatical, preparing my PhD at the University of Ioannina on the subject of "School Books: Ideology and Policy".

ALUMNI 2004-2005

Nikos Aridas: After graduating from the SEE Programme, I worked as an intern at the Centre for Democracy and Reconciliation in Southeast Europe (CDRSEE) and afterwards had a temporary placement as an administrative assistant at a notary's office in Thessaloniki. Then for 2 years, I worked in Hungary as an IT Analyst. In 2008 I came back to Greece, where I worked for six months as a District Manager for LIDL. Currently, I am in Brussels volunteering for an NGO, attending conferences and seminars and lobbying with a view to gaining hands-on knowledge of EU affairs, issues and institutions.

Etleva Babameto: After graduating from the SEE Programme, I returned to Albania, where I have been teaching "International Relations" and English at the non-public UFO University and at the State University. In November 2007, thanks to the knowledge I gained from the Master's degree, I was selected to translate for Dr. Erhard Busek, Coordinator of the Stability Pact, at a seminar entitled "More or less European", organised at UFO University. Since April 2008, I have been working as an inspector in the Internal Affairs Service at the Ministry of Justice. My Master's degree was very important in helping me to gain this job.

Aristeidis Botas: After graduating, I performed my military service, serving for 17 months as an officer cadet in the Hellenic Air Force, which I left with the rank of Reserve Second Lieutenant. In September 2008, I participated in a summer school at the European University Institute in Florence, which was a great experience. I am currently in Vienna working as an intern for the European Space Policy Institute. I am very interested in Space, because I am an amateur astronomer as well. After Vienna, I plan to submit a proposal for a PhD in Florence and also to start studying for the examinations of the Diplomatic Academy.

Evis Fico: Since February 2006 I have been Head of the Migration and Labour Relations Sector of the National Employment Service (MOLSA) in Albania. Among my many activities, I chaired a Task Force of the International Organization for Migration (IOM) which prepared a policy paper on “Combating irregular migration in Albania and the wider region”, participated in an IOM project on “Promoting legal migration and assisting victims of trafficking” and participated in a ministerial group preparing a study on “Combating the Informal Economy in Albania”. I am also a member of the group working on a strategy for victims of trafficking.

Vasileios Kyriazis: In Spring 2008, I participated in the team writing the encyclopedia “Greek Who is Who”, part of the Swiss Who is Who Verlag Fur Personenzyklopadien AG. I was responsible for interviewing important Greeks and writing their biographies. I have contributed articles to the Greek magazines “World War History” and “Forbidden History” and since May 2008, have been Chief Editor of Epikos Newsletter. (www.epicos.com), the leading global e-business platform for Aerospace and defense (see www.epicos.com/epicos/newsletter/2009-02-18_newsletter.html)

Giorgos Michalopoulos: After graduating from the SEE Programme, I continued my studies in Madrid, Minsk and Cambridge. This year I started my DPhil in Modern European History at the University of Oxford.

Alexandru Racu: I am currently studying for a Ph.D in Political Studies at the University of Ottawa, Canada. I have also been chosen as an official translator where among other tasks, I will cooperate with the Ministry of Integration to translate materials relevant to European Integration in Albania.

John Saragas: Since graduating from the SEE programme at the University of Athens in 2005 as an Onassis Fellow, I returned to Duke University School of Law, where I pursued both a JD (Juris Doctor) and an LLM (Masters of Law) in International and Comparative Law. While at Duke, I studied under the tutelage of Donald Horowitz and became extremely interested in ethnic conflict as well as in constitution making for ethnically divided societies. In addition, I served as an editor for both the Duke Journal of Comparative & International Law and the Duke Law & Technology Review. During the academic year 2008-9, I am a Fulbright Scholar in Nicosia, Cyprus, researching the role of non-governmental organisations and civil society. I am looking at two phenomena: the overall transparency/accountability of NGOs in general and their effect (if any) on the Cyprus conflict. In recent years, I also became involved with the American political world, serving as an intern for Senator Hillary Rodham Clinton in New York City, where I conducted political and public policy research.

Darjel Sina: After my graduation from the Postgraduate Programme in Southeast European Studies, I spent one year in Germany as a postgraduate student through the Erasmus Programme. I am currently in the third year of my PhD at the Law School of the University of Athens and plan to complete my studies this year and return to Tirana.

ALUMNI 2005-2006

Ali O. Egilmez: After graduating, I stayed in Athens, working for The Bridge magazine of International Herald Tribune and for the English language edition of Kathimerini newspapers as an author and editor. I also worked for a Greek public relations company, Civitas Ketchum, as an international client representative and I am now continuing my cooperation with them on a project basis. I am currently an Onassis Foundation Fellow, studying for a PhD at the Panteion University in Athens.

Eleftheria Mokas: After working as a lawyer in the Victorian Government Solicitor's Office in Australia for six years, I relocated with my husband and three children to Greece ten years ago. For the past six years (including the year when I was studying on the SEE Programme), I have been working for the Australian Embassy in Athens, where I am currently Manager of the Embassy's Political and Economic Office. In my job, I monitor and advise on political and economic developments in Greece, Bulgaria and Albania, as well as managing bilateral issues between Australia and the Embassy's countries of accreditation.

Natalia Nikolova: After graduating, I worked for the European Economic and Social Committee in Brussels. I am currently working as an assistant to a Member of the European Parliament and enjoy my work very much.

Duygu Ozturk. After returning to Turkey in 2006, I completed a master's programme in International Relations at Bilkent University in Ankara and am now studying for a PhD in the Political Science Department at Bilkent.

ALUMNI 2006-2007

Ali Ali Osam Abed: While I was studying on the SEE Programme, I was working for the Embassy of Iraq in Athens. I am currently posted in Minsk in Belarus where I am serving as Consul of Iraq.

Vasilis Arsoniadis: After graduation, I continued to serve in the Hellenic Army as a Senior Officer. I am currently a student at the Superior Inter-War College and I can assure you that my postgraduate studies have been really helpful.

Ljiljana Jevtovic: I came back to Belgrade in October 2009 and in November, I started working at the European Integration Office of the Government of the Republic of Serbia. The EU Office is the main coordinator of Serbia's EU integration process. For the first four months, I worked in the Department for Institutional Capacity Building and Training, where I was in charge of training civil servants in EU affairs. During this four-month period, I conducted and completed our Training Needs Analysis (TNA) by collecting data concerning personnel training needs directly connected to sectoral policies and priorities stemming from Serbia's Stabilisation and Association Agreement (SAA). Based on this information, I drafted our training programme for 2009 and also The Training of Civil Servants on the European Integration Process - Guidelines for Serbia. Following an internal reorganisation at the end of February, I am now working in the Translation Coordination Department, coordinating the translation and legal revision of the translation of the EU's acquis communautaire. This is one of the most demanding projects in Serbia's EU process, with more than 200,000 pages to be properly translated and then incorporated into national legislation. I hope after a few years in government service to come back to Greece and pursue research, maybe for a PhD.

Elena Papalabrou: While studying on the SEE Programme, I became involved with CogniTerra, an NGO promoting sustainable development, where I worked on project design, fund raising, communication and networking. After graduating, I was hired by the NGO ELIX-Conservation volunteers Greece, where I am responsible for the daily functioning of the office, as well as for project support. After a year, I was promoted to Project Manager with responsibility for coordination of all projects, including the coordination of a tree planting weekend in Ancient Olympia, research into Voluntarism in Europe, a campaign for active Europeans in the context of the European Elections, and the preparation of the 20 summer Work Camps which ELIX has been organising for the past 22 years. I also plan to begin studying for a doctorate on immigration, a field which I also worked on during my postgraduate studies.

Romana Mandeganja: After completing the SEE Program in Athens I moved to Thessaloniki, completed an intensive course of Greek language and since September 2008 I am happily married. From October 2008 I have been working as an architect in the Architectural Studio in Thessaloniki, designing various residential/commercial buildings and building upon my knowledge base and collecting working experience. I am considering a specialisation or a further academic pursuit in the field of urban/regional planning - urban growth management.

Asli Tumor: After returning to Istanbul in May 2007, I chose a career field in Human Resources. I have worked as a Research Consultant at a headhunting firm and as an Assistant Specialist at a pharmaceutical firm. Since November 2008, I have been working at Microsoft's Middle East and Africa Headquarters, based in Istanbul, as a Human Resources Operations Specialist.

ALUMNI 2007-2008

Milan Djokic: I am participating in the selection process for the Diplomatic Academy of the Serbian Foreign Ministry, a rather lengthy process that started in late October 2008. After several rounds of examinations, I am one of 30 shortlisted candidates for 20 open positions, out of 250 applicants. I truly hope that I will have the honour of sharing happy news with you once the selection process is over. In the meantime, I have been devoting my time to reading various news, articles and analyses on SEE and worldwide political developments, as well as to socialising, sport activities etc.

Alexandra Nikolakopoulou: I am now working as administrative staff and coordinator of the Europe Direct information relay centre at the Hellenic Foundation for European & Foreign Affairs (ELIAMEP), one of (if not the) most reputable think tanks in Greece. Over the past few months, I have found the knowledge that I gained through the Programme very useful and firmly believe that choosing it was one of the best investments I have ever made. I have to admit that it might not have been the easiest and more relaxed year that I've ever had as a student ☺, but I can assure both current and future students that the experiences they'll gain will accompany them for the rest of their lives.

Vasileios Stavrakakis: I am currently studying on the English language Master's Programme in "European Studies: Transnational and Global perspectives" at K.U Leuven (Catholic University of Leuven) in Belgium, with a scholarship awarded by the Flemish Community of Belgium.

Ana Vukovic: The reason I delayed graduating is pictured below

My baby Iris came before the degree. So since her birth on 20th October, she has become my priority. She gives so much joy and we are having lots of fun together, living happily in Athens. Two months after Iris was born, I returned to my work at Colliers International: http://www.colliers.com/ Corporate/ where I am very happy. Although there is a major economic crises that has seriously affected the real estate market, we are managing to respond to all our clients' requests and to remain one of the best in the market.

Since I work for an international company and my job is to coordinate projects throughout Southeastern Europe, the knowledge and education that I gained on our SEE Studies Programme has been very valuable.

Programme Administration 2008-9

Academic Director: Professor Christos Lyrintzis.

Chairman of the Faculty of Political Science and Public Administration

Academic Coordinator: Assistant Professor Susannah Verney.

Coordinating Committee: Professor Lyrintzis, Asst Prof Susannah Verney, Associate Professor Dimitris A. Sotiropoulos, Dr Ekavi Athanassopoulou.

Administration News:

Programme Administrator: Georgia Astraka, the mainstay of the Secretariat from the very first day of the operation of the Programme, has been seconded to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for a two-year term. Since November 2008, she has been working in the Office of the Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs, Professor Yannis Valinakis. We all wish you good luck in your new post!

Our new Programme Administrator is Dr Anna Vallianatou, who holds a PhD on “The role of small and big countries in the framework of CFSP. To what extent is the Common Foreign Policy common” and is editor of the monthly newsletter “European Developments”, published by the Institute of European Integration and Policy, University of Athens.

We have moved!!

The Secretariat of the Master’s Degree in Southeast European Studies has moved to the brand new administration building of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration in the centre of Athens, just a few minutes walk from Omonoia Square.

Where to find us: 6, Themistokleous Str.(corner with Gamvetta Street), Office 7, 2nd floor

You are all welcome to come and visit us!

Telephone: +30 210 3688965 & 3688966 (& fax)

E-mail: u-see@interel.uoa.gr

Website: www.pspa.uoa.gr

When to find us: 10.00 a.m.-2.00 p.m. Monday to Friday

OUR CLASSROOM

Teaching continues to take place in our classroom on the 2nd floor of the Department’s Postgraduate Studies building at 42-44 Aiolou Street, in the heart of Monastiraki.

The Class of 2008-9 in the SEE Programme Classroom